

Incorporating Linguistic Scaffolds into Lesson Plans

Using case studies from recent publications, CLDE staff from CDE will present research-based instructional strategies that can be used as linguistic scaffolds in a wide range of lessons. In the morning, teachers will discuss case studies from research and learn instructional practices to support access to content in the classroom. During the afternoon, there will be ample worktime for teachers to apply their learning to their own units/lessons while collaborating to plan for linguistic scaffolds for MLs. Please note: Teachers should bring lesson plans or curricular resources that they will use in their classrooms. There will be ample time to review resources and incorporate linguistic scaffolds into lesson plans for the upcoming school year. K-12 teachers and coaches welcome.
